

This Delaware bootcamp is made for learning, and that's just what it does!

At Delaware, we have a dream to last 150 years. And since people are at the heart of everything we do, we believe they are the key to turning that dream into reality. Our Best Possible You mantra captures what we stand for: to have all #peopleofdelaware learn, grow & develop in a continuous way.

A key part in that are our bootcamps: multi-day offsite training programs to set newly promoted colleagues up for success. But as our workplace evolves, so do our learning programs. We took a step back, rethought the format, and made it more relevant and impactful than ever.

Our revamped bootcamp isn't just for promoted colleagues anymore, it now also welcomes new hires, making it a more inclusive program. It empowers our participants to take ownership of their development before, during and after the bootcamp. It goes beyond traditional training by offering various, well-chosen learning opportunities that answer the needs of this diverse group of participants. On top of that, it engages leadership to play an active role, ensuring that what's learned turns into action.

The feedback speaks for itself: participants report meaningful behavior changes, a stronger network and engagement in diverse learning activities.

This initiative is more than a success for Delaware - it can be a model for any organization seeking to empower their people and to build a legacy.

Together, we're shaping the future - one empowered learner at a time.
